OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER.

The booms seem to be taking a rest. The Brownsville city council is taking steps to change the name of the place to Sweet Springs.

Sunset Cox characterizes the noise made by Tuttle, Fairchild and others as "the grand diapason of the jackasses."

We regret exceedingly that we have in this county a newspaper that indorses the language of Gen. Fairchild and Tuttle.

We have to thank Hon. Michael K. McGrath, secretary of state, for a copy of the acts of the extra session of the legislature.

The St. Louis Republican thinks that a policeman can best serve the public about now by following his nose. Same to our city marshal.

If our friends the enemy do not substitute something else for the "diapason of the jackasses" they would quite as well stay out of the canvass of 1888 entirely.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie last Saturday laid the foundation stone of the new library building in Edinburgh, for the free library of which he gave $250,000.

It would be a great accommodation to the people if the railroad commissioners could at once have printed in pamphlet form the railroad laws of Missouri entire.

We have to thank Hon. R. A. Hicklin for a copy of the acts of the extra session. We have not yet had the opportunity to read the official report of the new railroad law, but we will lay it before our readers at the earliest practicable moment.

These republicans are singular talkers. They always claim that their party contains the labor element, and yet when it comes to detecting the labor party they say they are from the democratic party. There must be some bad arithmetic about the thing somewhere.

At the presentation of the freedom of the city of Edinburgh to Mr. Carnegie Mr. Blaine arrived at the Town Hall late, and the janitor refused to let him in. The New York Herald says of the incident that the janitor's name was not reported by cable, but the case with which he "shut out" Mr. Blaine raises the presumption that it was Blaine.

"May God pay the hand that wrote the word. May God pay the brain that conceived it, and may God pay the tongue that dictated it." This is the language of Gen. Fairchild in regard to Mr. Cleveland's flag order, suggested by a republican, and rescinded before it was executed. What has the gentleman to say of Grant's restoration of Lee's sword?

We took the pains a few weeks ago to point out that Mr. Waterson's speech was not the Kentucky idea, and we are glad to say that he has since come to the conclusion that he was mistaken, and he is now a warm supporter of Mr. Cleveland. The speech had nothing in it against the north. It was simply an arraignment of Mr. Cleveland's civil service reform views.

The hypocrisy of those republican journals which affect to think that the democrats are the party who are waging the bloody shirt is unique. So far they have failed to quote any harsh words on the part of democrats toward the north, or anything which even suggests at keeping up the enmities of the past. The condemnation of blatherers who curse the president of the United States for doing his duty as he sees it, under his oath of office, does not come under these heads.

Venus is evening star. On the 13th, at midnight, the faintest of the stars reaches her greatest eastern elongation, and is then 45 degrees and 32 minutes east of the sun. She is at her most distant point from the sun, and her progress eastward is stopped. She will be surprisingly lovely through the whole month of July, but will not be so long as she stays above the horizon as she draws near the sun. On the 1st Venus set nearly two hours and a half after the sun. On the 31st she sets a little more than an hour and a half after the sun.

"If anything were needed to show that leaders of the democratic party have abused their power and should be deposed, the last extra session has furnished the material. It was not in setting both the regular and extra terms, as long as the Illinois legislature; and it was blameworthy at all times because some of the members, like the Post, believed that no railroad legislation was necessary. It was not as good a legislature as it might have been, and it was better than it would have been with more republicans in it who did not want any railroad legislation.

Is not a little more to pretend to think that the Intelligencer stated that there was but one orator in all the south? What is argued based on such premises? The meaning of this paper was clear, that the south had recently had one orator who especially attracted national attention, and that was Grady, whose speech was devoted to industry, fraternity and good will. In addition we may say, that neither Messrs. Waterson or Davis have, to our knowledge, said anything of late that can be construed as desiring to keep alive the old bitterness between the sections.

Dr. McAnally is a cool and level-headed observer. He says in the last issue of the Advocate:—"President Cleveland in a letter written in a mild, dignified tone, declines to visit St. Louis at the time of the encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, and the citizens are now making arrangements to invite him to come at some other time this fall, which it is thought he will do. As any man of good foresight might have seen, the opposition to his coming at the time designated, has resulted in his benefit rather than to the opposers. Ill-founded opposition almost always works to the benefit of that which is opposed. It naturally enlists the sympathy and co-operation of many who otherwise would give the matter little or no attention."

LAFAYETTE COUNTY EXHIBIT AT KANSAS CITY.

Harper's Weekly of July 16, contains an excellent picture of the immense building now being constructed at Kansas City for the National Agricultural Exposition, showing that the exhibition to be made there is attracting very general attention. The exhibition will open September 15 and close November 1, thus being in active operation for six weeks. During that time vast numbers of people will attend it, from all parts of the union and the world, but more especially from the fertile and densely peopled section of country which is included in the area within one hundred miles in all directions from Kansas City. Many of the eastern people who attend will be persons who either have already invested or desire to invest money in and about the wonderful city of the new west.

One of the features of the exhibition will be the exhibits made by counties. It behooves Lafayette county, therefore, to be preparing to make such an exhibition as will do it credit. In order to do this, work should be begun at once.

No one thing that Kansas City ever did in the way of advertising paid it so well as its exhibit at the Centennial Exposition. So it would be in our case at Kansas City.

There is to be noted of this exhibition: that it is the first one of the kind to give agriculture the prominent place. If Lafayette county cannot make an attractive show in cereals, grasses, fruit, etc., then we are very much mistaken. We know it can be done if the persons who attempt it understand their business, but that they must do in order to succeed, and that they must do it with the aid of the public and blowing, it will take money and practical work. The first thing necessary is to call a meeting at once of all persons interested in the matter. At this meeting committees should be appointed to solicit money in every township in the county. A committee should be formed to solicit exhibits; still another to be in charge of the building in the exposition hall or handsome pagoda to contain them.

The more originality there is in the arrangement of the exhibit the better. In this there will be room for the display of talent.

As prominent as the agricultural feature should be made there is no reason why we should confine ourselves to that. There are, besides, our cereals, woods, and all these stones, and our oaks. All of these should be given prominent positions.

The effort should be one on the part of the whole of Lafayette county, every town and township in it, and should be cribbed and confined by no local interests or jealousies whatever. No county that we know of anywhere has the resources from that to make a better exhibit than has Lafayette county. That it would greatly redound to its interests in enhancing the value of its lands, and in attracting capital with which to develop and utilize its natural advantages will agree. Can we not act promptly and efficiently in the matter?

Gen. Lander Post, G. A. R., of Lynn, Mass., was represented in Washington, a few days ago, by a republican newspaper as being hostile to Mr. Cleveland. The outcome was unfortunate for the bloody shirt warriors. The Post held an indignation meeting to protest against the misrepresentation, and then called on the president in a body. When he appeared to receive them Post Commander Walker stepped forward and said: "Comrades of Gen. Lander Post No. 5, I propose three cheers for Grover Cleveland, president of the United States!" The veterans gave three cheers and a tiger with a vigor and earnestness that made the air ring. His echoes died away, the president, with a smile, addressed the visitors as follows:—"I can only say to you, gentlemen, that I am glad to see you here. I have extended to you this courtesy, as I have lately, with much pleasure, to the other posts of the Grand Army of the Republic on their way home from visits to their southern friends. I want you to understand that I have lost no confidence in the Grand Army of the Republic as an organization, notwithstanding recent occurrences to which it is incomprehensible to me that men who have risked their lives to save the government should return home to abuse one of its ablest and most patriotic members. It is the duty of the respect and support which every good citizen owes to the government and the constitution, and I greet you then as citizens as well as comrades of the Grand Army of the Republic, and I shall be pleased to take you all by the hand." Once in a while the "diapason of the jackasses" becomes a little too loud and provokes the application of a wholesome corrective, and Lander Post seems to know how to administer it.

"Will the Intelligencer please state in what sense the action of Messrs. Tuttle and Fairchild resembles a rebellion?" Well, though our radical republican brethren don't seem to know it, Grover Cleveland is president of the United States, and language calculated to strike ignorant men to assassinate him for executing his duty conscientiously is as treasonable as that of Mr. Yancey in 1860 in inciting the southern states to withdraw from the Union. If there had been no Yanceys in the south and no Tuttle and Fairchilds in the north there might have been no war.

"Show to eastern moneyed men that there are a few republicans in Missouri; that eastern people are allowed to live here, that this is not the republic community they take it to be." If no republican men think there are no republicans in Missouri, and admit that they haven't sense enough to be trusted out alone with their wealth; and if there are people who think republicans are not allowed to live here, and that this is a ruffian community, where did they get these impressions?

"The head and front of the above gentlemen's offenders are, Fairchild and Tuttle" that they have been reciting a little history and protesting in emphatic tones against the ill-headed and unwise doings of Mr. Cleveland. "Of what high-headed doings, pray, has this wicked Mr. Cleveland been guilty?"

THE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE AT HIGGINSVILLE.

We print elsewhere, the programme of the teachers' institute to be held at Higginsville, August 15-19, under the supervision of County School Commissioner H. D. Demand.

There is no guild that can benefit more from comparison of thought and work than that of the teacher. Dealing as it does with the highest part of man, his intellectuality, it cannot too earnestly study the means which are to be used to sharpen and to elevate them. It is very much in this as in other fields of endeavor, comparison is necessary in order to bring out the real value of work. The danger of this comparison lies, however, in the proneness to glittering generalities and a diffusion which amounts to dilution.

The crying need of the day is for thoroughness. There can be no doubt that methods are better than they are. It would be singular if, with our normal systems and greater general opportunities, they were not. But, on the other hand, are we turning out better mathematicians, better linguists, more classically rounded scholars than came from the old schoolhouses presided over by such men as Robt. N. Smith and L. A. Maclean? Are not too many of our teachers "machine made," as it were? Are they well informed in history, the classics, mythology and literature, so that their conversations, without regard to the text books, may be of benefit to their pupils? As its surroundings are so apt to be the language and bent of thought of a child.

It is often observed that to keep a hotel in first rate style a man must himself know how to live like a gentleman, so that their conversations, without regard to the text books, may be of benefit to their pupils? As its surroundings are so apt to be the language and bent of thought of a child.

Mr. Russell, from ordinance committee, then presented an ordinance governing the conditions upon which the franchise asked for an extension of the street car line by the Lexington & Kansas City Road, Investment Co., Co., but, that, on account of the hot weather, hindering work in the addition, the company was not ready for the council to act, but would be in time for the next regular meeting, in August.
